

Structural – Private Residence, Belgravia

Project details:

Mews extension to a prestigious London address.

The client required a polished exposed concrete finish to the ceiling areas. All first and second floor concrete had to be lightweight and required to have sharp edgings to the exposed detail.

The concrete was an LC32/35 using Lytag[®] lightweight coarse aggregate.

Project:

Private residence, Belgravia, London

Date:

2007

Architect:

Eric Parry Architects

Structural Engineer:

Michael Hadi Associates

Main Contractor:

Sherlock Interiors

Readymix supplier:

CEMEX

